“Living Safely In A Dangerous World”

Thursday, February 25, 2010

We hear it on the news, we read it in the newspaper...crime is everywhere. Most of us are searching for ways to protect ourselves and our families.

One of the keys to understanding crime is to know that criminals rarely strike at random. They choose a victim. They look for someone to attack...QUICKLY...EASILY...and someone who represents little or no RISK to them.

Any one of us can be a “quick, easy and low risk target” when we are:

- ...walking to and from our car
- ...stranded on the side of the road with car trouble
- ...alone at home

These and other situations will continue to be dangerous until we make a safety plan for ourselves and the ones we love.

To help us make that safety plan, Citizens Against Crime will present their nationally recognized crime prevention and safety program, “Living Safely In a Dangerous World” at our meeting on February 25, 2010.

The professionally trained speaker will use a combination of audience participation, humor and role playing designed to help all of us retain the information so we can access it if we should need to protect ourselves.

Sponsorship Opportunities available for this event. Deadline is February 22, 2010 by 5:00 p.m. No cancellations accepted after that date. All attendees must prepay or pay at the door. No shows will be billed.
